The second annual Out Loud and Off the Page on April 26th featured, once again, funny, touching, and memorable readings from the pens of our talented FreeWrite writers. Here is a poem from that night.

Where I Come From

by Gina Pierson

I come from the prairie.
Black, damp dirt
Tilled into fields of corn and soybeans.
After the harvest
You can see to the edge of the earth,
Past the stubble of tan stalks,
To where the glacier stopped.
Right there.
You can actually see the ridge,
Four miles south of town.
That's where the grinding ice
Dumped mounds and gullies of dirt,
Then scoured its way north in retreat,
And it left behind the prairie.

The first settlers didn't linger here.
What could they do
With land that only grew grass?
But now, the roots of families
Are deep in the loam and mud,
Divergent longings held fixed by an overcast sky,
And it is a hard place to escape,
To pull oneself from.

Baker Extraordinaire Jim Cobis brought a batch of his homemade cookies to the Tea.

Our annual Spring Tea was just delightful... a beautiful day... good company... delicious sandwiches, desserts, and, of course, tea. What a wonderful way to thank all our generous members for a very successful fund-raising season.
